

Disclaimer

The materials on this website are for informational purposes only. They are not offered as and do not constitute legal advice or legal opinions and should not be used as a substitute for obtaining professional or legal advice. The use of this website, including sending an email, voice mail or any other communication to this firm or one of its members, does not create an attorney-client relationship between you and Krieg DeVault LLP.

Further, cell phones and some forms of internet based communications are not secure and can be intercepted or owned by third parties. Online visitors should not take action based upon this information without first seeking legal counsel. Should you chose to contact Krieg DeVault (through email, the website, or other means of communication), do not disclose information you consider to be confidential until Krieg DeVault verifies that it does not represent other persons or entities involved and that Krieg DeVault is willing to consider accepting representation. Information provided will not be treated as confidential. We do not collect any personal information from you unless you voluntarily provide it. We will not sell, disseminate externally, or trade your personal information and we will only use that information to respond to your specific request. We may use your personal information to electronically distribute newsletters or e-alerts to you. You may ask to opt out of receiving electronic communications from Krieg DeVault.

You may reproduce materials available at this site for your own personal use and for non-commercial distribution. This website may constitute advertising materials in some jurisdictions. All copies must include the following copyright notice:

©2018 Krieg DeVault LLP. All Rights Reserved.

SOLUTIONS®