

Medical Devices

Krieg DeVault offers effective corporate, intellectual property, and related regulatory counsel to producers of medical devices and systems. We work with technologies such as implants, orthopedic devices, surgical instruments, and surgical support equipment. Advise manufacturers of these and other medical devices with the integrated capabilities of health care, intellectual property, and litigation practices that are highly regarded among Indiana law firms. In helping clients develop and protect their intellectual property, we have familiarity with the Safe Medical Devices Act and can offer proactive advice on regulatory approval and compliance, as well as product liability defense. On the business and transactional side, our lawyers assist with structuring joint ventures and licensing arrangements aimed at enhanced marketing opportunities, and counsel clients with regard to financing and general corporate concerns.
